

My strongest support for Dan Fischer. I have known him closely nearly all my life and have thousands of times tried to understand why he cares so much for the abused and needy. I lived with him through those years the affidavits refer to. They are blatantly construed and in many respects downright false. I wonder what mind manipulation is occurring on my own children within that organization.

Dan Fischer has certainly been one of the most honorable humans that ever walked on this earth.

With love and sincerity,
DeLoy Bateman

I support Dan Fischer and applaud all he has done to promote and preserve families and youth who have either left or been evicted from the FLDS communities.

I have known Dan Fischer and his family since 1992. During these 15 years there has not been a time that I have not been amazed at the values this man lives and projects to his family, peers, friends, employees and total strangers. The core values which he has established for his company are representative of his values and the best ways in which "humans" can conduct themselves towards one another.

I have seen Dan make hard decisions during this time, and even then, the decisions were always explained with the utmost of care and concern for everyone involved. A win-win outcome was always at the forefront of all conversations and actions taken.

I have seen the soft-hearted side of Dan where he wasn't afraid to let his emotions show, his tears flow and voice crack because of the strong feelings and dedication he felt to reduce or eliminate dental pain in mankind, even when speaking to hundreds of people at a time.

I have seen the daring and brave side of Dan when he stepped out into the middle of nighttime traffic on a busy city street to place his coat under the head of a stranger who had fallen and watched over this person until help arrived, even at tremendous risk to himself of being hit or run over.

I have seen the caring side of Dan when he has shown pictures of fellow "humans" in many countries throughout the world when he travels, who have suffered greatly due to dental pain and he has shared these stories with the world and encourage all to be involved.

We have seen how he has established non-profit organizations and programs to help those affected by floods, hurricanes, earthquakes and other natural disasters. He has shared his products and profits with other caring "humans" so they can also go forth into remote areas of foreign countries and relieve pain and suffering.

He has established programs to help those afflicted or injured by others who tend to hate the diversity of other human beings rather than embrace them for their uniqueness. He cares for others first.

I have seen the patriotic side of Dan and stood with him on the steps of the Utah State Capital building when he wasn't afraid to stand for what he knew to be true and let the world know about the "lost boys" from the FLDS group and to use the avenues of our democratic system to bring their stories to light for the world to see.

I have seen Dan encourage others to contribute and support our fellow men and women in the military with donations of food and money, in which he matched the donations. I have seen the determined side of Dan where he has sacrificed his time, talents, energy and even his blood to ensure that the world understands that there are better ways to help our fellow man.

I have worked with several of his family members through these 15 years and never have I heard one cross or angry word towards their father or any of their family members. They work alongside of us and never use their relationship with their dad for any personal gain on their part. They are to be commended.

I have experienced the extreme dental pain, embarrassment and humiliation of traumatic tooth loss from an automobile accident while in my teens that left me without many of my front teeth. The limited resources at the time to reduce my pain and provide some resemblance of natural teeth was an experience I hope others will never have to endure. This has been a very turbulent and ongoing lesson now for forty years and I will do everything in my power to help promote those wonderful products and procedures which restores not only the functionality but also the form of teeth to a very natural likeness. These transformations change lives, uplift spirits and provide a level of confidence and self esteem not found in many other ways.

Dan has brought about a tremendous amount of goodwill to the world of dentistry and beyond, moral standards to those who know him and phenomenal leadership and innovative skills to improve the quality of life that we all know and enjoy. What a pleasure it has been to know Dan Fischer and his wonderful family. These are experiences that have improved my life and made me a better person for knowing them.

Sincerely,
David Kendall

My name is Steven Bateman I am one of the hundreds of people Dan has helped after leaving Colorado city. I would like to have my name added to the list and I agree with the statement 100%.

Please I would like to lend my support for Dr. Fischer by signing this statement. He has done so much for so many without ever asking for anything in return. If I need to do anything else please let me know.

I have worked for Dan for over 11 years. In my opinion there is no one in this world who I trust and admire more than him. He genuinely loves all of humankind and he is fair, giving and honest. I support him in every way possible and hope that no one will believe all of the hatred and lies coming from the FLDS people. They do not know the real Dan Fischer!!!!

Terry Tengler

I am a nephew of Dan, and the same age as his daughter Melinda. I have spent quite a few hours in Dan's home while going to High School at Alta Academy, and these allegations are ridiculous.

BJ Fischer

The scriptures talks about you can no someone by their "fruits," and Dr. Fischer has shown he is not capable of doing those things he has been accused of. All the FLDS has done by bring these charges against him is upset at least 800 people.
